GOES MANY DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Mrs. Ferguson Has Not Eaten for Over a Month.

STRANGE RESULT OF DISEASE

makes her case the most peculiar one perhaps that has ever come to attention in this part of the country,

For the past seven years, according to her own statements, Mrs. Ferguson has been subject to epilepsy. A few months ago the attacks assumed a malignant form, and although she was carefully nursed by her husband and + D. C. Dunbar, who returned +

Just Quit Eating.

At first she forced herself to take a little nourishment, despite her inexplicable averson to it, but early in May her appetite so far deserted her that she could not any longer force herself to take food and decided to stop eating. She thought at the time that her appetite would soon return, but as the days passed she felt no hunger, and, as she says, has not experienced the least to the day that Mr. Snow left for the New York, and was considerably the New York, and was considerably the Salt Laker's experiences with faro the Andhis heavy losses. She performs her duties about the house and takes exercise that is not that attendants of the construction cars of the Consolidated Railway & Power appetite nor her strength. Yesterday, in company with her daughter and several friends, Mrs. Ferguson went to one of the parks and spent the day walking over the grounds. When seen last night after the day's exercise, Mrs. Ferguson said:

"I feel as well as I have for some time, of course, with the exception that I am a little weak. I just decided to quit eating and I do not propose to commence again until I get hungry."

Mrs. Ferguson's family are in hopes that her appetite will return soon, for if it does not they fear she will waste away from want of something to keep required of her, yet this work that would produce hunger in almost any
